

Focus Daily News

Everyone's Source for News About South Suburban Dallas, Texas

Focus Daily News • 1337 Marilyn Avenue • DeSoto • TX • 75115
www.focusdailynews.com

February 1, 2012

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed

From Staff Reports

Free Program for Small Construction Company Executives Offers Tips to Ensure Success

DESOTO—Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. www.warriorconstruction.com.

neighborsgo.com The Dallas Morning News

FEBRUARY 1, 2012

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local Agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

Gail Warrior, Founder & CEO of Warrior Group with Participants of previous Small Business Academy class.

At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

###

About Warrior Group

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. www.warriorconstruction.com.

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Posted February 1, 2012

Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

About Warrior Group

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service.

Related Links

- Warrior Group
- Warrior Small Business Academy

February 4, 2012

<http://inthenews.unt.edu>

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/ community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

About Warrior Group

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service.

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Posted February 2, 2012

Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

About Warrior Group

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service.

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Registration is now open for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned businesses in the construction industry. Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts this academy to assist companies to overcome the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry.

DeSoto, Texas, United States., February 3, 2012 - (PressReleasePoint) - Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

###

About Warrior Group

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. <http://www.warriorconstruction.com>

www.zibb.com/

Industry News & Blogs

Feb. 3, 2012

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. www.warriorconstruction.com.

www.prlog.org

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Registration is now open for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned businesses in the construction industry. The program is sponsored by general contractor Warrior Group.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PRLog (Press Release) - Feb 03, 2012 - Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

###

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. www.warriorconstruction.com.

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

2012-02-03 23:51:01 - Registration is now open for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned businesses in the construction industry. Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts this academy to assist companies to overcome the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry.

Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

###

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. www.warriorconstruction.com.

DeSoto Newswire

Comprehensive Real-Time News Feed for DeSoto, TX.

Feb 03, 2012

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. www.warriorconstruction.com.

<http://pressexposure.com>

February 3, 2012

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Desoto, Texas (PressExposure) February 03, 2012 -- Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule.

About Warrior Group

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. <http://www.warriorconstruction.com>.

www.congoo.com

February 4, 2012

Warrior Group Prepares Small Companies to Succeed With Small Business Academy

Each year, DeSoto-based general contractor Warrior Group hosts the Warrior Small Business Academy, a free eight-week program for small, woman and/or minority owned in the construction industry. Registration for the 2012 Warrior Small Business Academy will be open as of February 1.

As a woman/ minority owned business and a Texas HUB, Warrior understands the challenges faced by small businesses in the construction industry and strives to help other businesses overcome these challenges. Participants in the Warrior Small Business Academy will learn from successful small business professionals in the construction industry. They will receive insights, tips and techniques designed to enable them to develop effective practices and avoid common mistakes. The program's learning objectives include:

- Discover the steps to building capacity, including bonding, insurance and staffing
- Understand how to secure contracts with federal, state and local agencies
- Gain the knowledge to efficiently estimate and bid projects
- Perform with excellence once a contract is awarded
- Effectively market your business
- Network to form business relationships

"At Warrior Group, we believe the construction industry can only advance if we advance together," said Gail Warrior, founder and chief executive officer, Warrior Group. "For this reason, we are pleased to once again offer the Warrior Academy. The convenient, eight-week schedule allows business owners and executives to attend sessions once a week outside of regular work hours. And, as always, Warrior Group offers this instruction and all related materials at no charge to participants."

Classes will meet Tuesday evenings April 24 to June 12, 2012 from 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm at the University of North Texas Dallas Campus, 7300 University Hills Boulevard in Dallas. Registration for the Academy opens February 1 and registration is limited to 30 people. Information about qualifications and an online application are available online at www.warriorconstruction.com/community/academy-application. Interested business owners may send questions to warrioracademy@warriorconstruction.com.

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule.

About Warrior Group

Warrior Group, based in DeSoto, Texas is a premier commercial construction contractor and a leader in the use of the PMC construction method (permanent modular construction) to deliver high quality, sustainable buildings on an accelerated construction schedule. The 14-year old company is one of the largest minority- and woman-owned general contractors in the U.S. with more than four million square feet of successfully completed projects in the last four years alone, and with an impressive roster of private and public sector clients across the United States. Warrior is dedicated to building long-term customer relationships by continually surpassing expectations and providing superior customer service. <http://www.warriorconstruction.com>.